As you, the Students of FHS, page through this, your 1959 Mesa, we hope that it brings back fond memories. We know that it is impossible to capture all the anxieties, doubts, and accomplishments in the Life of FHS. We have, however, tried to restore the greater part of them. After the pages have yellowed with age and you browse through them, perhaps this thought will come to you. "Life in Fredericksburg High School was a life of happiness."

Bernice Houy, first semester Campus Comet Editor, reviews latest Journalism techniques.

Looking on as Photographer Gay Kilman develops Mesa pictures is Mrs. Mildred Rowntree, sponsor.

administration

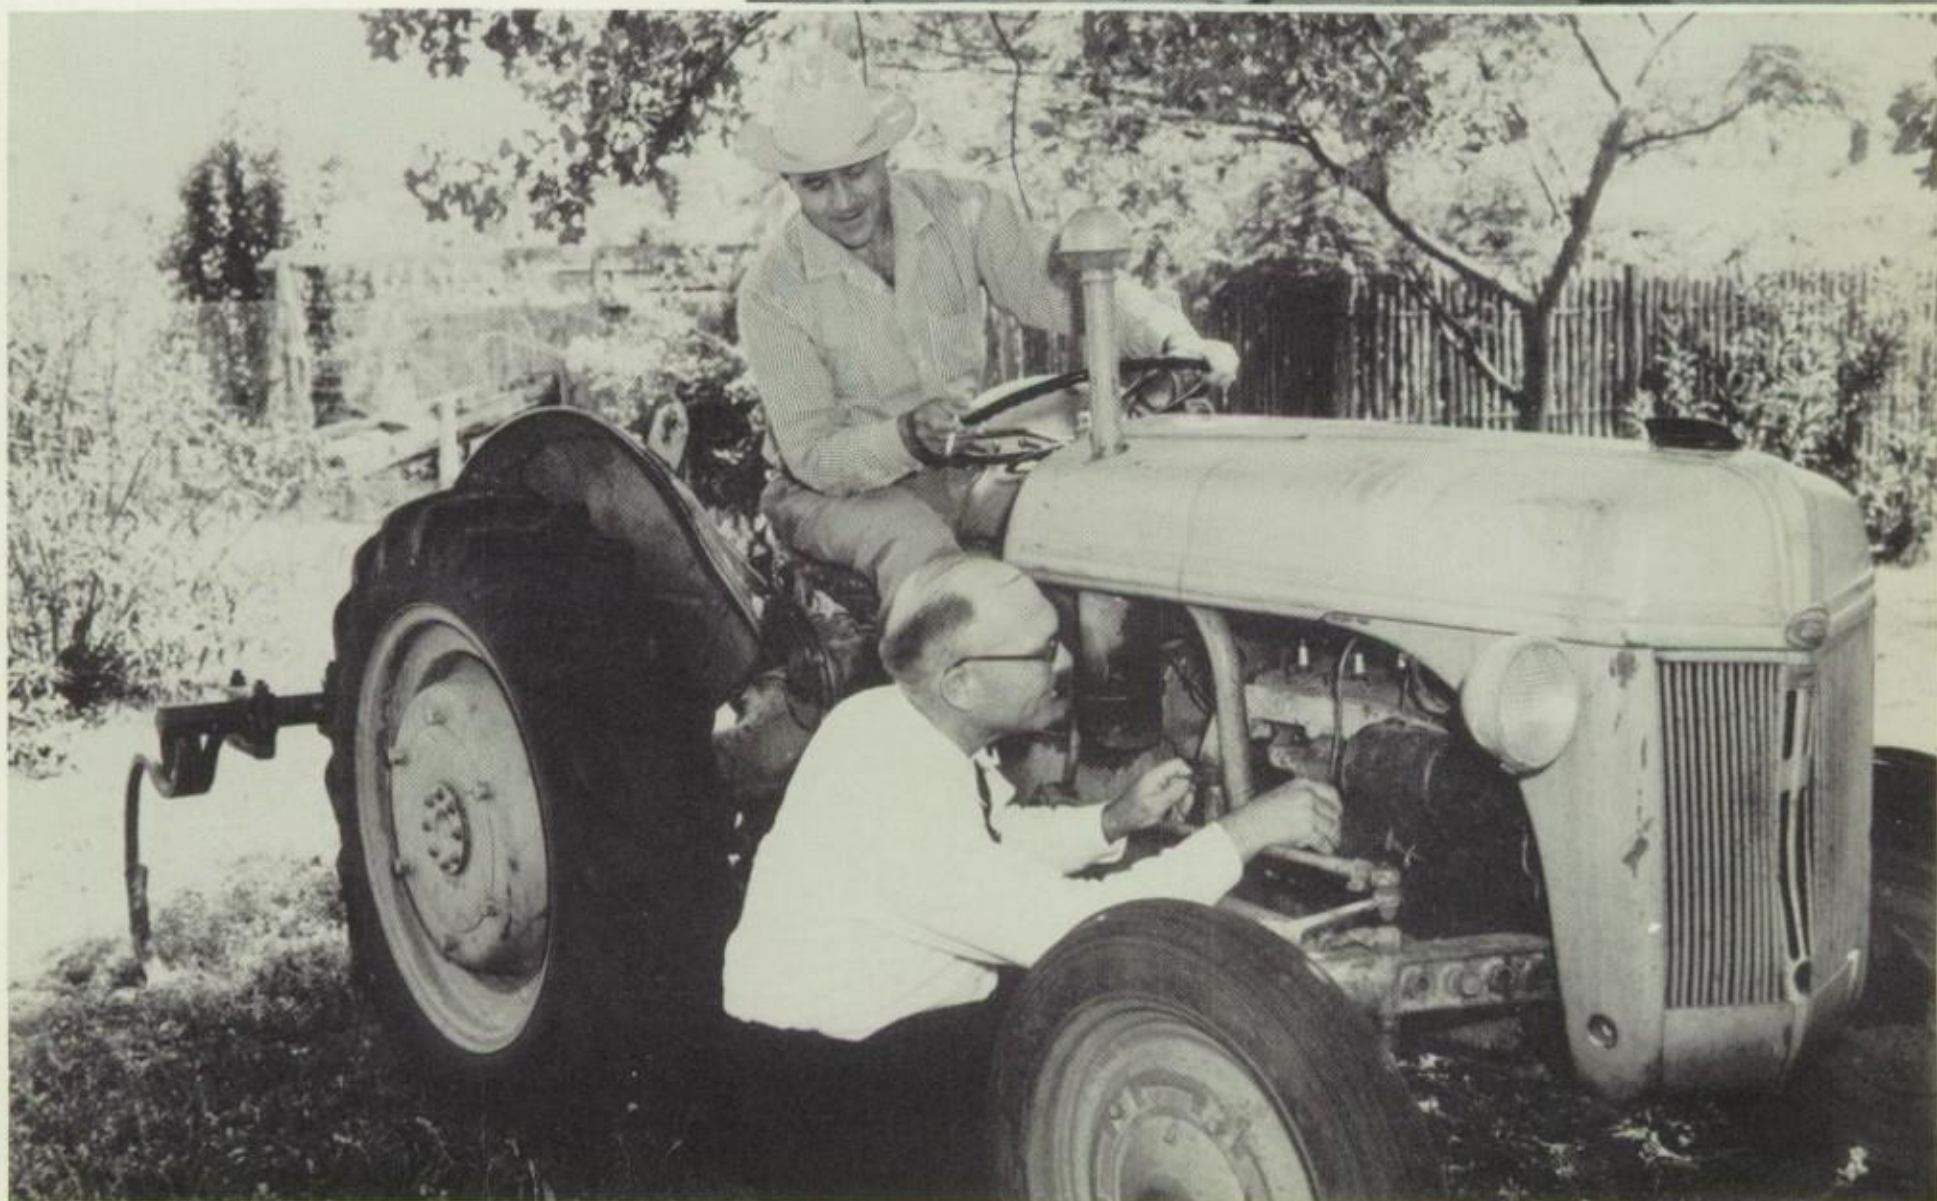

One of Superintendent Fred Thompson's favorite diversions from school life is mowing the lawn.

Enjoying coffee after their meeting are the members of the Fredericksburg School Board: Edgar Dietz, W.H. Osbourn, Arthur Kowert, Vice-President; Henry Schmidt, Tyrus Cox, President; Guenther Heimann, Victor Nixon, Secretary-Treasurer.

Aside from taking care of the school's secretarial work, Mrs. Vera Kneese and Mrs. Dorothy Schmidt often enjoy a morning coffee break.

Mr. Robert Walter, science instructor, checks to see that the tractor is in working condition as Principal W.C. Westerfeldt prepares to plow his field for spring planting.

fhs faculty

Earl Stobaugh, industrial arts and civics instructor, along with the math teacher, Herbert Haas, display their ever-enduring patience while engaged in the favorite sport of hunting as well as working with students in the classroom.

Away from school life, Dale Johanson, head coach, and Harold White, assistant coach, enjoy a game of backyard football with their sons whom they expect to be All-Americans in the future.

Boating and other sports are of particular interest to Miss Margie Haws, girls physical education teacher, and Mr. Logan Templeton, commercial teacher and tennis coach.

A quiet pleasant outdoor picnic in the warm days of spring finds Mrs. Mildred Rowntree, instructor of journalism and English; Mrs. Viola Gold, commercial teacher; and Miss Stella Jung, biology and Spanish teacher, taking life easy along an isolated river bank.

Mr. Joe Tatum, agriculture instructor, demonstrates technique of eliminating weeds to Mrs. Dixie Stafford, homemaking teacher, and Band Director James Mabry III.

Matters of school are set aside as Miss Esther Mueller, English teacher; Mrs. Shirley Goodin, librarian; and history and German instructor, Miss Ella Gold, look over some of the material that is to be included in a book of biographies of Gillespie County Pioneers.

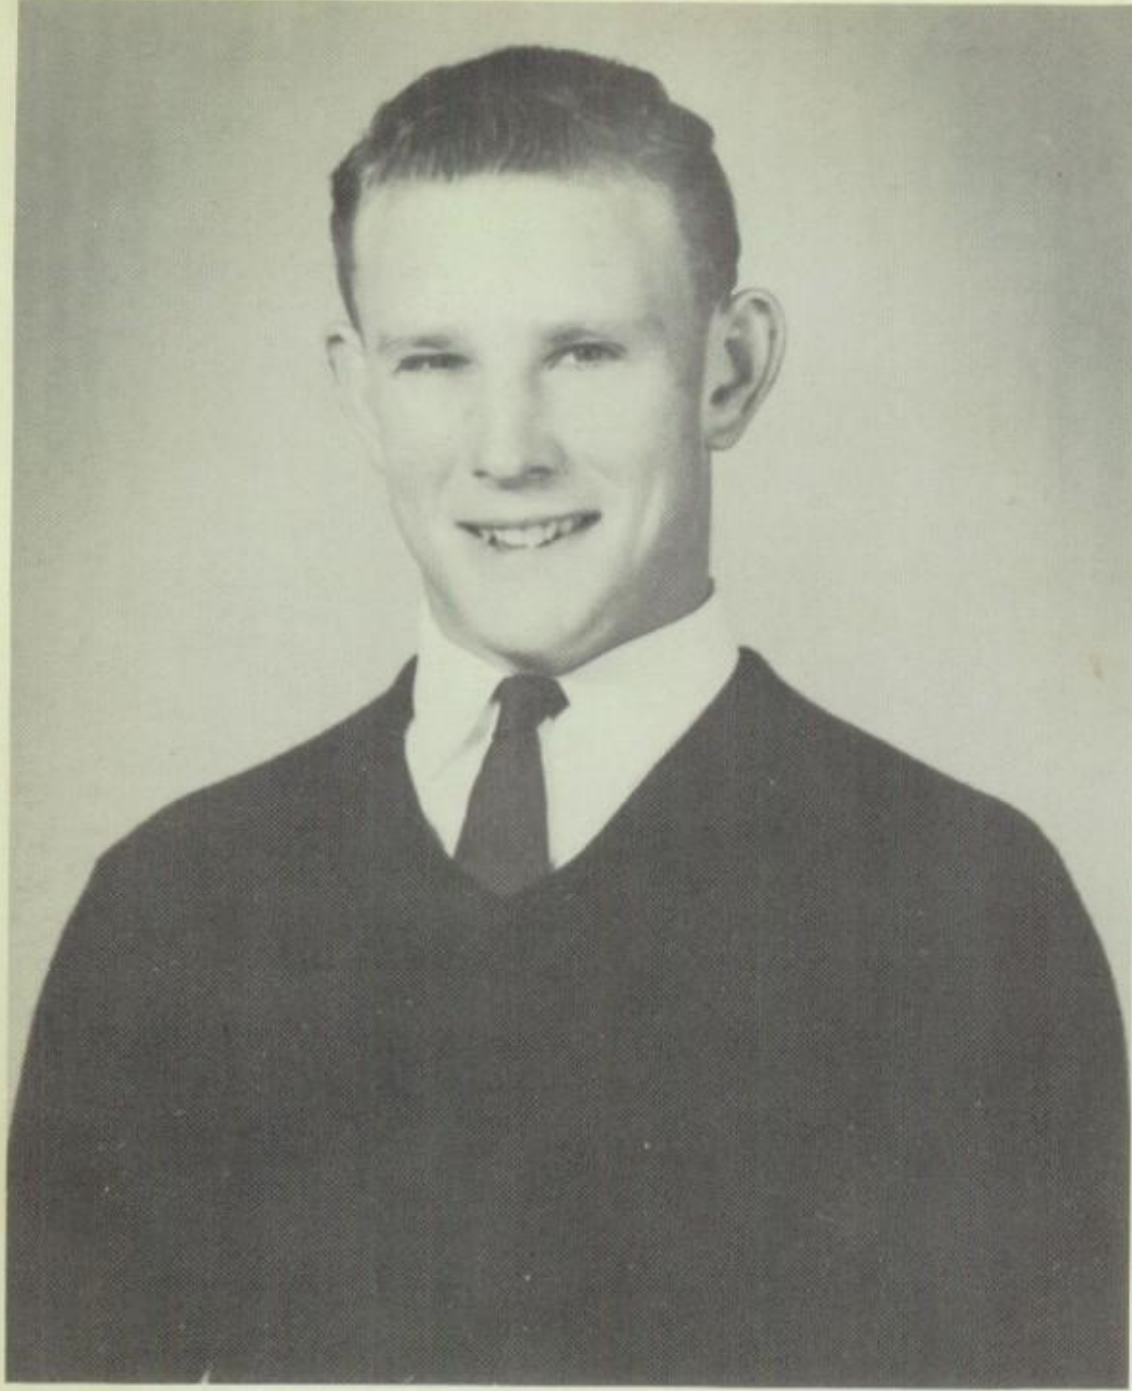

life is a variety

FHS offers a variety of clubs to its students. Through these clubs the students can explore many future vocations and take part in various activities.

One of the main jobs of the FHS Student Council is to direct school life. Council members shown on these pages are participating in some of the many council activities. In cooperation with the Speech Department the council sponsored many exchange assembly programs with surrounding schools and presented a Fine Arts Show in March. At Christmas time each teacher received an apple and greetings from the council. In January the council and the Freshman class sponsored a Sock Hop. Developing religious aspects is the council's duty as it provides weekly Monday morning devotionals.

Lee Meyer, 1958-59 FHS Student Council President, was elected by the student body in an election held in May, 1958.

Wayne Edwards, Thomas Doebbler, Charles Haas, Carol Keller, and Carey Stehling are polishing apples for the teachers.

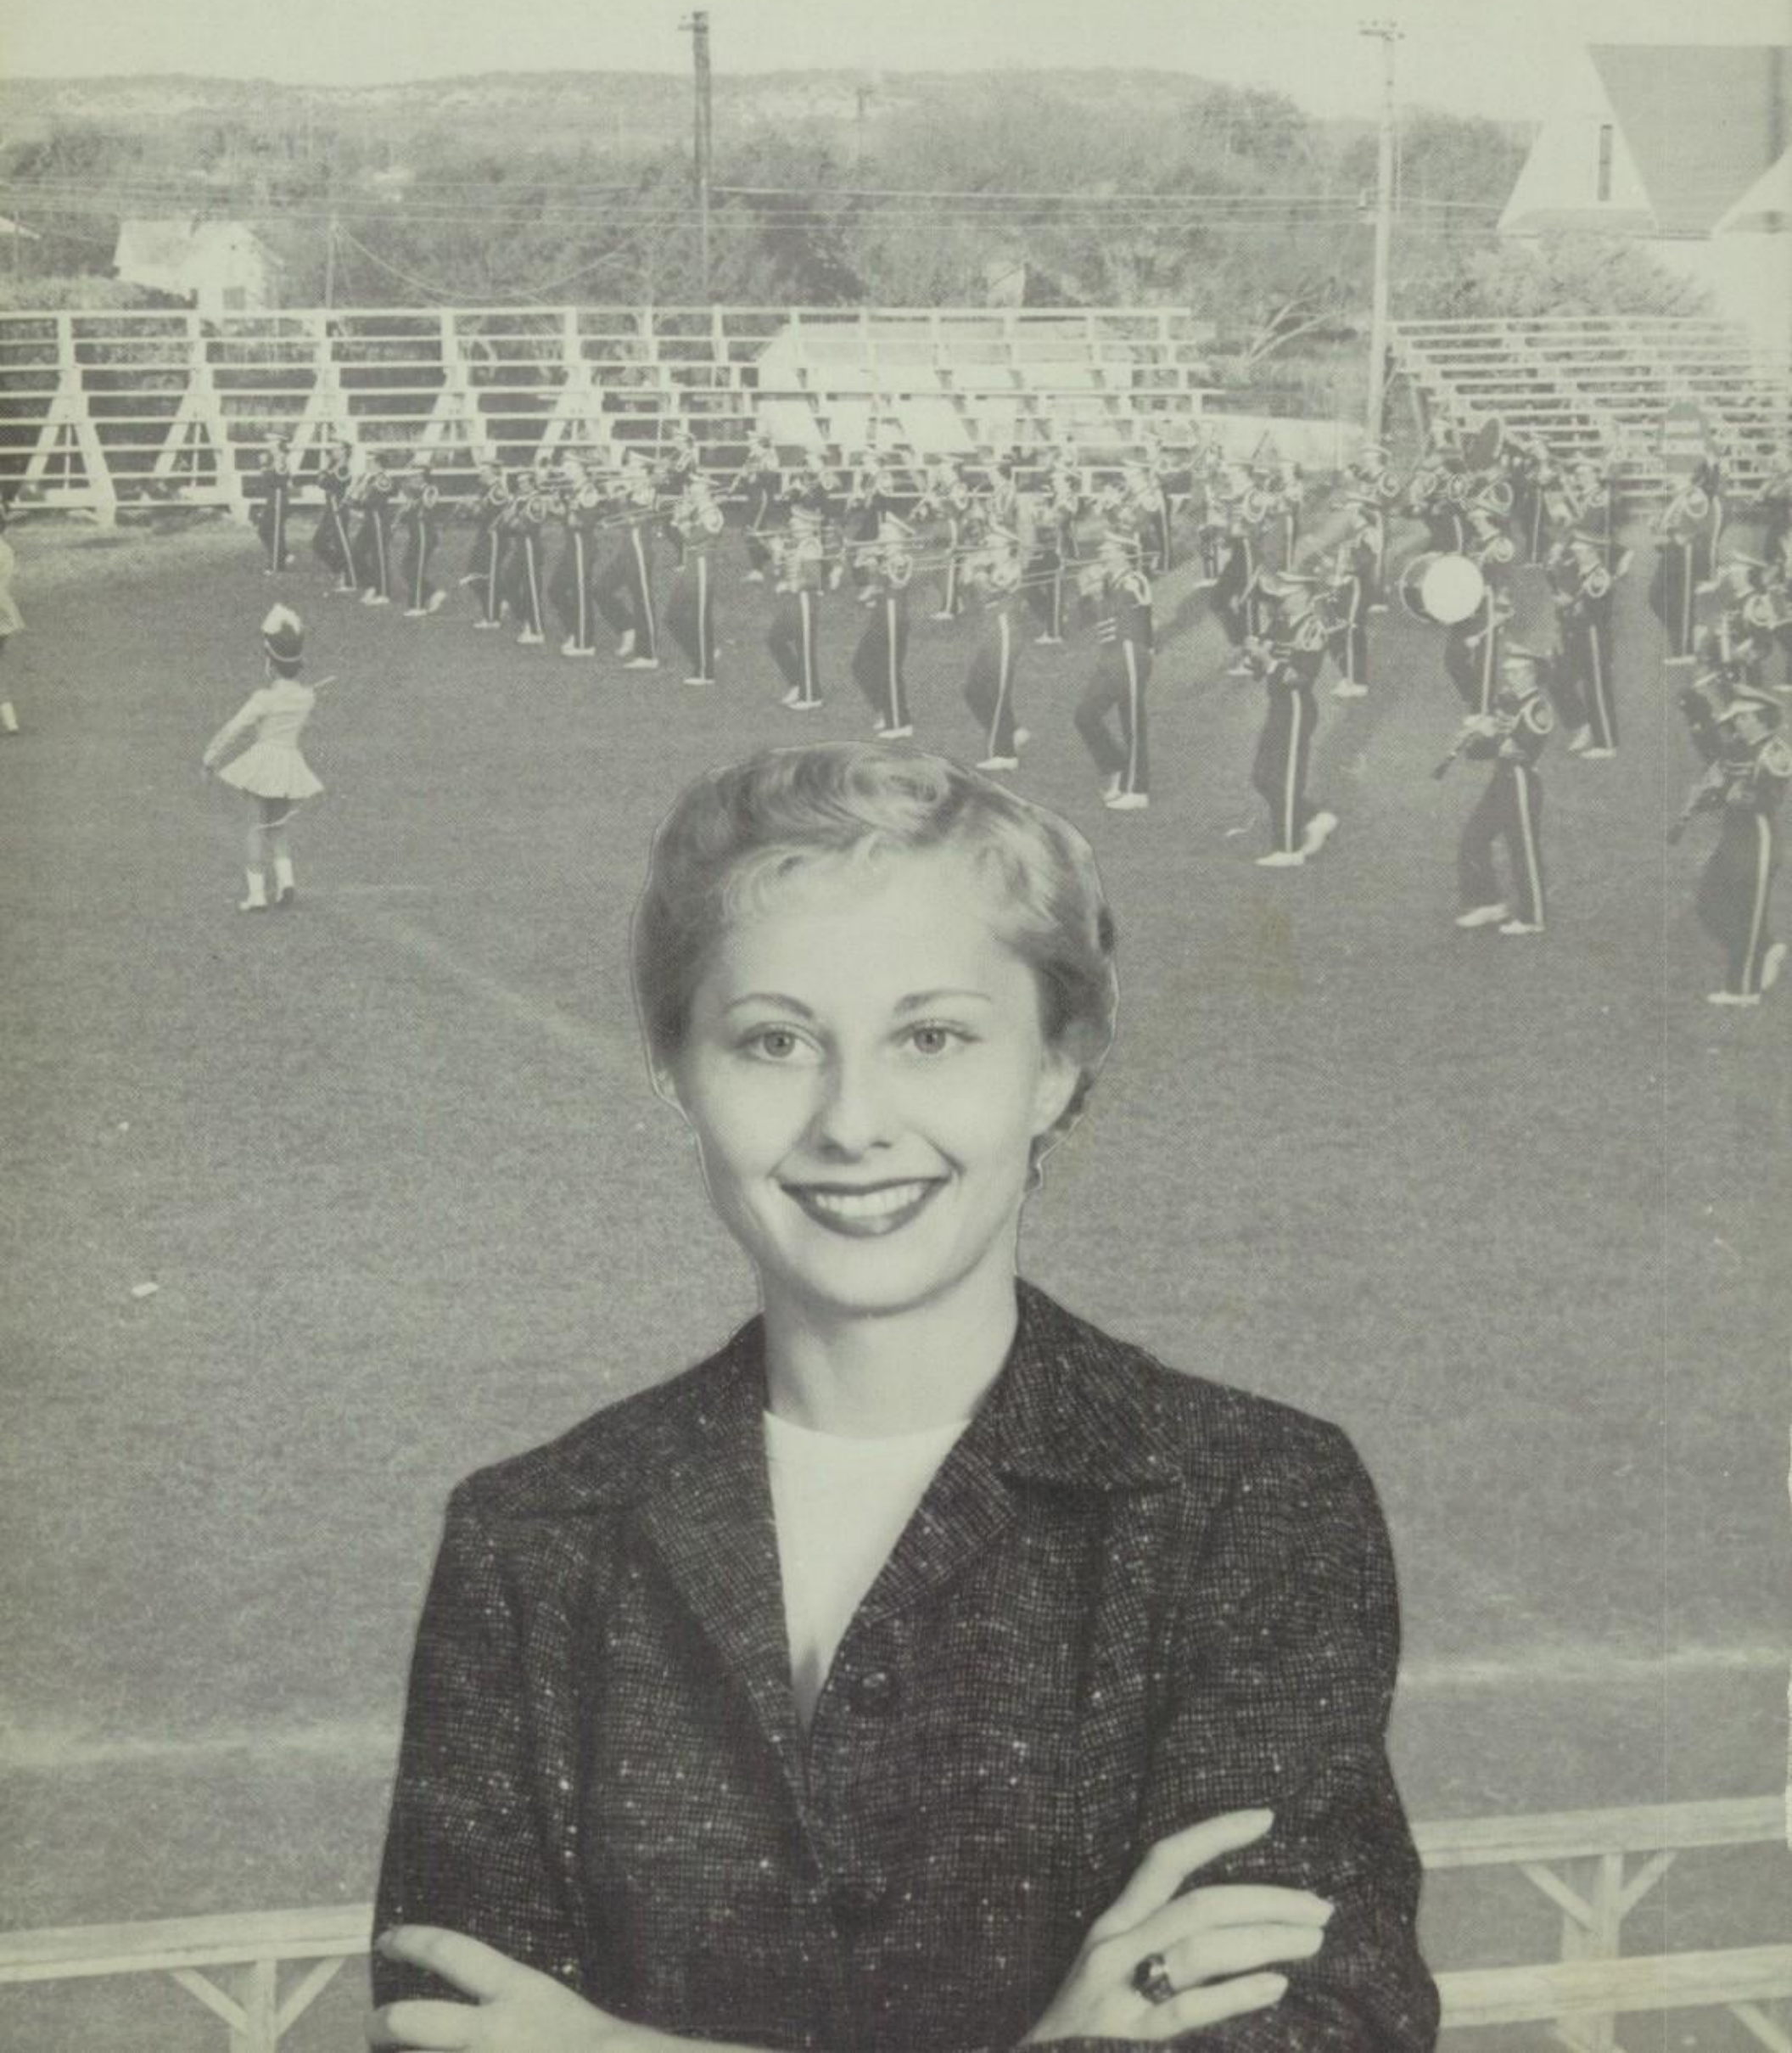

Looking at the council scrapbook are the council officers, Elgin Keller, parliamentarian; Kay Evers, treasurer; Kermit Rahe, vice-president; Maynett Cox, secretary; and Lee Meyer, president.

Council members, Patsy Danz, Clarence Durst, Sandra Dietz, Karen Keller, and Jim McBride work along with council sponsor, Mrs. Mildred Rowntree, on decorations for the Sock Hop.
